BE A GOOD NEIGHBOR

Imagine strolling through your neighborhood, enjoying the fresh air and the sights, when suddenly your shoe finds an unwelcome surprise - a pile of poop. It's not just an inconvenience; it's unsightly, unsanitary, and downright unpleasant. That's why being a good neighbor means more than just saying hello - it means taking responsibility for our furry companions.

When you are out for a walk with your dog, remember that their waste isn't just going to disappear on its own. It's our duty as responsible pet owners to scoop it up and dispose of it properly. Not only does it keep our streets and parks clean, but it also helps prevent the spread of diseases and parasites that can harm both humans and other animals.

Next time you are out with Fido, don't forget the golden rule of pet ownership:
